

DISALLOWANCE BY DOMINION VALID-- NEED FREE PRESS

PRESS Control Bill of Alberta Ultra Vires Holds Supreme Court in Decision. Political Differences must be expressed says Cannon as Interference with Freedom of the Press Rapped in Ottawa decision.

B. JOHN H.
CONJECTURE is rife throughout the Dominion to-day on the question of Disallowance of the Quebec Padlock Legislation by the Federal Government. Over the week-end the Social Credit and Press Control Bills of the Legislature of Alberta were the subject of a Supreme Court decision. It was declared that all the bills submitted to the Supreme Court were unconstitutional and that the power of Federal Disallowance of Provincial legislation as well as the right of a Lieutenant-Governor of a Province to withhold assent to a bill was Constitutional.

While the Social Credit legislation is remote from Quebec the Press Control Bill is one which by its nature is similar to the Quebec Padlock. The Press Bill like the Padlock Law prevented newspapers from printing information considered detrimental by the Government. The decision further shows that the Federal Government could quite legally disallow the Padlock Law.

In order to show what a direct bearing this decision has on the local Padlock enactment we reprint part of the Judgment of Mr. Justice L. A. Cannon concerning the rights of the Citizens of Alberta and the attempt at their restriction by the Alberta Legislature. "We feel that the rights of Quebec citizens are no less than those of our Alberta contemporaries. The Padlock Law is definitely a restriction of the freedom of the Press inasmuch as it provides for the confiscation of a paper carrying or propagating Communism."

CANNON'S DECISION.

"It seems to me that the Alberta Legislature by this retrograde bill is attempting to revive the old theory of the crime of seditious libel by enacting penalties, confiscation of space in newspapers and prohibitions for actions which, after due consideration by the Dominion Parliament, have been declared innocuous and which, therefore, every citizen of Canada can do lawfully and without hindrance of fear of punishment."

"It is an attempt by the Legislature to amend the Criminal Code in this respect and to deny the advantage of Section 133 (A) to the Alberta newspaper publishers."

(Section 133 (A) exempts criticisms of Government policies from the section applying to seditious libel.)

(It is interesting to note that Communism -- the raison d'être of the Padlock Law -- was at one time the subject of a clause in the Criminal Code (Section 98) now abolished. Thus it may be said that the Quebec Government is attempting to enact Criminal Legislation in the Padlock Law.)

PARTY NOT PERMITTED TO ERECT BARRIERS

"Under the British system, which is ours, no political party can erect a prohibitory barrier to prevent the electors from getting information concerning the policy of the Government. Freedom of discussion is essential to enlighten public opinion in a democratic state; it cannot be curtailed without affecting the right of the people to be informed through sources independent of the Government concerning matters of public interest."

"There must be an untrammelled publication of the news and political opinions of the political parties contending for ascendancy."

"As stated in the preamble of the British North America Act our constitution is and will remain, unless radically changed, similar in principle to that of the United Kingdom. At the time of Confederation, the United Kingdom was a democracy."

"Democracy cannot be maintained without its foundation: Free public opinion and free discussion throughout the nation of all matters affecting the state within the limits set by the Criminal Code and the common law."

WILL THE PADLOCK UKASE BE NEXT?

Premier Duplessis had better get a specially large made-to-order Padlock. A nice, big, shiny Padlock. Because it may yet be that he will be compelled to attach it to his own Padlock Ukase, which would be a very sad thing indeed. It would be like the rattlesnake that swallowed itself and found that it didn't taste so good.

This is a conclusion which may reasonably be drawn from the decision of the Canadian Supreme Court that affects the Social Credit legislation of Alberta--especially in its nullification of the Press Gag Law. In declaring that Canadian institutions undeniably derived their efficiency "from the free public discussion of affairs, from criticism and answer and counter-criticism; from attack upon policy and administration and defence and counter-attack; from the freest analysis and examination from every point of view of political proposals," the Supreme Court clearly enunciates the legality of freedom of speech in Canada to which Quebec will have to lend an ear.

From this morning's report in the Times two very significant facts emerge. Firstly, the Dominion Government enjoys the power to disallow any provincial legislation that its High Court rules unconstitutional; and secondly, any legislation that infringes upon the freedom of the press, and, by clear implication, upon freedom of speech and assembly, is unconstitutional and may be disallowed by the Federal Government. The phrase "criticism . . . from every point of view" is of tremendous significance.

It is apparent, then, that somebody ought to tell Mr. Duplessis that he has perhaps been breaking the law in this respect and therefore may not deliver any speeches in the McGill Union. I suggest that the S.P.C. invite him to address the McGill students in the Union, just to see whether the latest Students' Society resolution will be put into effect. For if it is not the height of illegality to place on the statute books an unconstitutional law, and then enforce it with an enthusiasm that is self-revealing, then Adrien Arcand is Stalin's first cousin and his swastika is merely a chance variation of the hammer and sickle.

The Supreme Court has returned a truly great verdict, and has spoken with dignity for Civil Liberties. It has, in a measure, repaired the damage to Canada's good name, done by irresponsible, reactionary provincial authorities who are short-sighted enough to desire to scuttle democracy.

The story is by no means completely told, however. We must now have a similar ruling on the Padlock Ukase. Assuming that this ukase is voided, we have no guarantee that this matter will end

JED LIND.

Jed Lind will be remembered in last year's show as the hard-hitting Caesar Borgia, a mediaeval double-talk gangster who had some difficulty with a gentleman who had a curass. His advice came to Doheny rather late as Dan had already realized the asset that Madeleine would be to his show and had cast her in a prominent singing part. But the present Revue executive was glad to hear that their singing star had a following as far away as the Queen City and welcomed the telegram accordingly.

RADIO DEBUT.

Another item that had the Revue Office agog last night was the news that Lloyd Huntley is to play two pieces from the Revue on his programme at 9 p.m. over CFCF. The two songs to be featured are "Dreams Alone" by Sam Tolchinsky, and "Please Come Through With Love," with music by John Kettles and lyrics by Ted Beecher. Music Manager Bill Hingston, talking about the pieces that will be played on the broadcast, said that they are two of nine to be used in the Revue and have been chosen out of a total of fifty-five songs handed into the music committee this year, setting up a all-time high for the Red and White production.

DANCING CLASS HELD

More Boys Than Girls Learning Latest Steps

"Unless the girls watch out, they will not be invited to any more dances," said Miss Coussan, the teacher of the ballroom dancing class, which takes place at Strathcona Hall on Wednesday afternoons. The class, it appears, has been a great success as regards the boys, who are fast learning all the latest steps, but to every three of them there is usually only one girl present. Although the year is soon coming to an end, Miss Coussan hopes that the last classes will be patronized by the co-eds, for the boys are getting tired of dancing with each other. However, to console all who have missed them this year, the classes are going to continue next year.

Reggie Childs' Band Will Play At McGill's Last Party of Year

THE last party of the year will be held this Saturday night at the Red and White Rhythm Cabaret. The dance will be held in the main ballroom of the Mount Royal Hotel, immediately following the final performance of the Red and White Revue. For the Cabaret, Reggie Childs and his orchestra has been engaged to play, along with the well known Revue impressario, "Rusty" Davis. It will be Childs' first visit to McGill in the capacity of band leader, while it will be the first opportunity that McGill students will have had to hear a name band at one of their dances. The fact that Childs is to play for this dance, plus the fact that it is the last chance the students will have to step out, makes it doubly attractive.

Tickets for the Cabaret have been priced at $6.00 per couple by the executive. They are on sale at the Mount Royal Hotel, the Union Tuck Shop and from the janitors in all of the faculty buildings. Various members of the student body also are selling these tickets.

As in the past, several members of the cast of the Revue will be featured in an impromptu floor show at the Cabaret. However, as diversion from the floor shows of former years, the show will consist solely of the singing stars of the show.

Patrons for the dance are Principal and Mrs. Douglas, Col. and Mrs. Bovey, and Mrs. Grant. Unfortunately, Dr. and Mrs. Douglas will be unable to attend, but have graciously consented to extend their patronage.

STUDENT ELECTIONS SLATED FOR THURSDAY; FIFTEEN CANDIDATES CONTEST SIX POSITIONS

Peggy Lamb

IN the event that I am elected President of the Women's Union, I shall do my utmost to fulfil the duties of this office and to uphold the high standard set by the executives in recent years.

It shall be my aim to further the objects of this Union as stated in the Constitution, namely, "to promote social and recreational interests of the women students," and "to aim at the establishment of a building . . . which will provide facilities for the above." To these ends I would endeavor to obtain more rooms in the R.V.C., committee and recreational, for the use of the Women's Union.

I would like to make possible a plan whereby the women students who come from a distance each morning may have lunch in the R.V.C. dining room; or, less specifically, to improve upon the lunching facilities and the present lunch room for these students.

I shall make every effort to bring the Women's Union into closer contact with the M.W.S.A.A., that women's sports may have a more prominent place on the campus, and I shall co-operate with the President of the M.W.S.A.A. to that end.

I shall co-operate fully with all clubs and societies of the Women's Union, that each may avail itself of every facility offered by the Women's Union.

I will do my best to carry out any improvements which I may see as necessary or which may be suggested by the students. I will endeavor at all times to be impartial and to keep the interests of the women student body in mind.

BIZARRE MEDICAL PUBLICITY DECRIED

Professor Oertel Addresses Medical Graduating Class

ACCURACY, sincerity of thought and a sense of duty should be the constant aim of every practising physician, stated Professor Horst Oertel in his address on Saturday night to the graduating class of the Faculty of Medicine. Comparing the present trend of medical education to that of Hans Andersen dealing with the Emperor's Robes, Professor Oertel held the attention of the four hundred and sixty-odd doctors and undergraduates who had gathered for the fifty-sixth annual banquet of the Medical Undergraduate Society.

In answer to the toast to the University, Sir Edward Beatty spoke of the sympathy which he feels for the medical profession and related how he nearly entered the profession himself. Mentioning the benefit which he obtains in his position as Chancellor and the stimulating arguments into which he is led, he emphasized that such contacts aided him in solving his business difficulties.

Professor Oertel, at the beginning of his speech, "The Autopsy Table and the Emperor's New Robes," reaffirmed that a knowledge of medicine begins and ends at the autopsy table. Taking his own career as an example he traced the various influences which led him to take up pathology as a life work. Direct observation, the visual appearance of objects, should take precedence over all other methods of investigation.

In an endeavor to point out one of the flagrant faults of the present medical system, Professor Oertel told the tale of the two fakers who supposedly fashioned some robes for the Emperor which were invisible to all but the wise. Everyone in the land, from Prime Minister to the proletariat, admired the beauty and elegance of the robes, which in reality were non-existent. The medical profession, Professor Oertel affirmed, is approaching a state not far removed from this fairy tale. Decrying the recent trend to popularize medicine and present operations in picture form in magazines, the speaker claimed that the doctor ought to preserve the art of being a scholar instead of veering towards charlatanism. No good can come of this inefficient publicity. It will only lead to a degeneration of

IN accepting nomination for the Presidency of the Women's Union I wish to thank my nominators for the confidence they have placed in me and to assure them, and others who may support me, that I will do all I can to discharge the duties of that office to the best of my ability.

I understand it is the general custom for candidates for the position of President of the Women's Union to outline reforms they would institute, and improvements they would make, if elected. I have found it is unwise to make rash promises, because matters concerning the Women's Union, as everything else, must be dealt with as they arise, with a full view to the circumstances and conditions which are involved.

I wish to say, however, that if I am entrusted to that very responsible position I shall try to fulfil it in the best interest of McGill and the students whom I represent. I shall endeavor to maintain the high standards set by the previous presidents, and I shall continue to support the policy of the Women's Union in attempting to establish its permanent headquarters in the Royal Victoria College. I would try to uphold the rights of the Women's Union on the Students' Council, and through it the views of the members of the Women's Union.

I would also give my wholehearted support next fall to the Freshman Entertainment Committee in order to see that the incoming girls are intelligently and graciously introduced to university life. I would co-operate in every possible way with all clubs, societies, and organizations that come under the jurisdiction of the Women's Union. I would at all times endeavor to be impartial and keep the interests of the student body in mind.

In closing may I reiterate my promise to carry out my duties faithfully should I be elected.

STUDENTS TAKE AIR THURSDAY

Nation-wide Hook-up of C.B.C. Features Local Talent

McGill and Macdonald Revues, Glee Clubs, Daily, and Players Participate INCLUDING everything from torch songs to interviews, a McGill Student Broadcast, the first in history, will hit the airwaves Thursday afternoon, March 8, from 3 to 4 p.m. over station CBM.

This program is the second in a series featuring various universities across Canada. Included in a large network will be the stations of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and four short-wave stations.

RADIO REHEARSAL

Another complete rehearsal for all participants in the McGill Broadcast will be held tonight at nine-thirty (9.30 p.m.) in the CBM studios, King's Hall Building, 1231 St. Catherine St., W.

The presentation will consist of original songs written by students, the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, the Red and White and Green and Gold Revues, a McGill Cavalcade by the Players' Club, and interviews with various students, including the Managing Board of the Daily.

The Master of Ceremonies will be John Pratt, McGill graduate, who will commence by introducing the combined Glee Clubs, who will sing "Dear Land of Home" from Sibellus' "Finlandia" and "The Cachuca" from Gilbert and Sullivan's light opera, "The Gondoliers." The Girls' Glee Club will sing "Shepherds' Dance," and the Men's Club, "Old Man Noah."

The Red and White Revue will feature original songs written by students for their forthcoming production.

IT has been often said that an election platform is futile because the President of the Students' Society is compelled to comply with a majority vote. Nevertheless, as Chairman of the Students' Council, the President has influence in guiding its policy and decisions, and his ideas, therefore, should be brought before the student body in his election platform.

The basis of my platform is:

(1) A Greater Co-ordination between the Students' Council and the Student Body, and

(2) A Greater Emphasis on Inter-Faculty Athletics.

In conjunction with the above I submit the following recommendations pertaining to the Students' Executive Council and the Students' Athletic Council:

STUDENTS' EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.

(1) Elections.

I believe that in the future open elections should be held for all major Campus offices. This would eliminate to a great extent the undercover electioneering practices maintained at the present time with their consequent whispering campaigns and clique politics.

(2) The President, as Chairman of the Council, should maintain a completely impartial attitude toward the various groups, clubs and societies on the Campus. I believe this point cannot be too strongly emphasized in order that the Council may function in the best interests of the whole student body.

(3) A knowledge of Council business should be made available to the students through the "Daily." This I stressed at a recent Council meeting; the motion was passed but has not as yet been put into effect.

Council business should be made available for two reasons: (a) in order that the student body be familiar with the functions of the Council (at the present time I doubt if 10 per cent. know anything about it); and (b) in order to promote a greater interest in student activities.

(4) Students' Council.

I advocate proportional representation on the Council according to the number of students in each faculty. By the present arrangement each faculty has one Council member. I propose the following representation:

Faculty. Students' Council.

Arts and Science . . . 400 3

Medicine . . . 650 2

R.V.C. . . . 450 2

Engineering . . . 400 2

Commerce . . . 160 1

Dentistry . . . 80 1

Law . . . 50 1

Theology . . . 15 1

(5) Freshman and Sophomore Interests.

I believe very strongly in creating opportunities for Freshmen and Sophomores to gain experience in administrative responsibility. With this in mind I would advocate (a) the continuation of the Freshman and Sophomore entertainment programmes, and (b) the setting up of a Junior Council elected from Sophomore years, to handle all Freshman and Sophomore activities.

This latter would necessitate very careful development but has tremendous possibilities in developing, at an early stage, responsibility in student administration.

(6) Extension of Responsibility to Individuals and Groups within the Student Body.

At a recent Council meeting it was felt that the members were too busy to undertake responsibility for the McGill radio broadcast. I suggested that a responsible student

SINCE this is not an election in St. Henry constituency, I am not going to promise that, if elected, I shall fill up the big hole on Dorchester Street, nor the Campus hollow, nor can I guarantee a championship football team next fall. I only wish I could.

Therefore, I shall restrict myself to a simple statement of fact--what will be attempted, and what may be achieved. In a platform of this kind it would be futile for a candidate for the presidency of the Students' Society to make promises which by the very nature of things it would be impossible to fulfill.

Consequently this platform must necessarily be considered merely as my personal ideas on certain phases of undergraduate life that I feel merit some definite attention.

(1) First and foremost, the Employment Bureau is one of the most practical facilities administered by the Students' Executive Council. This enables a large number of students to secure summer jobs every year, and is doing an invaluable service in that line. However, I feel that the scope of this Bureau could be greatly extended and that it might become an agency to secure permanent positions for the graduating class. As such it would be a medium through which students could contact prospective employers.

(2) I want to express myself as being heartily in accord with the present idea of establishing a Co-operative Bookstore at McGill. Such a venture has proven to be successful at other Universities, and if feasible arrangements can be concluded here it should be introduced. The underlying principle is to eliminate middlemen's profits and later to refund these to student members in the form of premiums on what they buy.

(3) The Freshman Reception Program which was introduced two years ago and further developed last year is a very important part of student activity and as such should be maintained. Other members of last fall's Freshman Reception Committee feel with me that certain changes could be instituted which would make it an even greater success than it hitherto has been. I should like to see these introduced.

(4) Finances have always been a matter of vital importance in student self-government. It has been found necessary in the past few years to readjust the financial relations between the Council and the various Undergraduate Societies. This is a matter which will require final settlement next fall, as our present negotiations are not yet quite complete.

(5) Last autumn the Council established a Freshman Information Bureau. At this central office it was possible for Freshmen to obtain detailed information about extra curricular activities. I would advocate that this service be made available to all students, and that a more inclusive card index system be maintained.

As the President of the Students' Society is also an ex-officio member of the Students' Athletics Council and a representative to the Athletics Board, I would like to submit to you what appear to be salient points concerning athletic administration.

(1) Financial. The present method of financing athletics is extremely inadequate. The whole burden of athletic administration is being borne by the Students' Society through the Ten Dollar fee.

Civil Service Scholarships

DURING the past few years the question of Federal Government Grants for Scholarships has come to the fore a number of times. In fact a resolution was put before the House of Commons by Mr. Martin (Essex East) which favoured the idea of Federal backing for a scholarship plan.

Canada has a number of National Research Scholarships for scientific study. But to date there is nothing being done by the Federal Government for the general Arts student.

Many argue that such scholarships would be a waste of money—they claim that there is no practical value to be obtained from an Arts course and therefore they would not back any such plan. Most of such criticism comes from those who have not had the advantages of a college education.

In many respects the Canadian Government seems to be missing the boat. True we have a Civil Service Commission—but most of the positions under its control are the small positions—work which can be done by a person without higher education. The main point to keep in mind in any question of civil service is that it is not the number of jobs which are regulated but the quality of the jobs which are regulated. For example it is all very well to say that three quarters of the Crown servants are under a Civil Service Commission—but when we realize that the majority of these jobs are merely in the outside departments—postmen or pen pushers in some bureau—we come to the conclusion that the Civil Service Commission is doing a good job as far as it goes, but that it falls pitifully short of the mark. What good comes of having a well regulated Civil Service if those men are not directed capably. What we need in this country is a well trained and ably educated personnel in the executive end of the Civil Service. For too long this country has had to suffer under the political dictates of the Government in power. A good example of the way politics affect governmental services was seen at the end of the last Conservative regime when a Deputy Postmaster General was given his post over the heads of a number of willing and able men waiting to step into the position. Such malpractice makes for a poor morale on the part of the Civil Service.

It would seem that a wise move for the Government to follow would be in the adoption of the plan now in force in England. There the top ranks of the Civil Service are recruited from the Universities. Men are attracted to the Civil Service from these institutions. They are assured of a career, they have security of tenure. They are well rewarded for their work. They have a chance for advancement and an adequate recognition for work well done in the form of honours.

This tendency is also becoming prevalent in the United States. The recent development of the TVA was marked by an influx of University trained men into the Government's Service. In the Scan-danavian Countries men are trained from high school age to fill important jobs—jobs with the government. In these countries the Governments get the best brains available for their departments.

In Canada the thought of perhaps becoming an important Civil Servant is almost immediately dropped by any self respecting college man about to graduate because the position is insecure, the pay is low and the chance for a fair promotion is small.

Canada should snap out of its Civil Service lethargy and should institute some system for recruiting the top men in the Universities for its work. These men should be paid and should be assured of a secure tenure of office.

One of the best ways of recruiting able men is to offer scholarships to those intending to follow up their college work by a career in the Civil Service. If a plan to cover this idea could be worked out and ably and intelligently managed much could be done for the administration of Government in the Dominion.

Ilona Boros...Gladys Swarthout
Antal Kovach...John Boles
Zoltan Jason...John Barrymore

Fritz...Fritz Feld

Romance in the Dark is a notable film undertaking because it exhibits one of my own pet theories that pictures with an operatic background don't necessarily have to be phony. In this case able direction lends a fast amusing pace to an opus that would have ordinarily sagged owing to a preponderance of beautifully sung arias. Swarthout is remarkably beautiful, possesses a rich, magnificent voice. Boles shows some slight flair for comedy, although in this he is outshone by Le Barrymore and Fritz Feld, the latter contributing an excellent bit of character acting. This picture, unlike most of the opera cycle, is well worth seeing, even if you are not a great lover of the uppers.

Joe McKnight...Lew Ayres
Nora Longdon...Louise Campbell
Austin Brown...Roscoe Karns
Daniel Smith...Edgar Kennedy

Here is a picture that might have been a smash hit if someone responsible for these things had seen fit to lend it some slight iota of coherence. As it is it misses being 'terrific', being only mildly so. The story concerns a nice young girl in a nice small town, Midburg, who is almost the victim of the gossip-mongering house-wives who inhabit the place. 'Scandal Sheet' tries to do what the sociological study of Middleton did, and fails abysmally because there is no sequence at all to the jumble of events. It tries to take ordinary commonplace and build them into a moving picture. The only trouble is that, while these things may have dramatic value, they must be accented properly, which this film fails to do. However, the good acting of Louise Campbell, a new-comer, is very good. Otherwise, it's just a fair picture.

West of Shanghai.

A Warner Bros. production.
Characters. Players.
General Wu Yen Fang...Boris Karloff
Mrs. Creed...Beverly Roberts
John Creed...Ricardo Cortez
Lieut. Chang...Richard Loo
Jim...Gordon Oliver

Boris Karloff has at last been given a chance to leave the realm of spooks and do some straight acting; he has at least shown that he has much more personality than any ordinary spook.

The story, if any, deals with the last part of the short career of General Fang, Number One man in Northern China. He is a brigand who wears a uniform and all the trimmings, who leads his wonderful army, and assassinates all who oppose him. At the beginning you are terrified by his face, but you are sorry to see the end of Karloff and the picture.

The General, affectionately known as "The White Tiger," comes with his army to a Christian mission and takes charge of affairs in his function of guest. Here he comes into contact with two money-grasping Americans, a valuable oil-well, and a love affair to boot. The General is not involved in the love affair personally because, as he says, "What's one woman between friends?" His henchman, Chang, does some executing on the side, while the general, with his fine sense of moral right, "fixes" the love affair and the business transaction. The picture is serio-comic, mostly serio.

The added attraction is another of the "Lieut. McBride and Torchy Blane" series. Blondes at Work keeps up the quality established by the preceding episodes, and is perhaps above average. Glenda Farrell does not threaten to marry the Lieutenant so much and she gets as many scoops as ever, while her lover is nearly fired for giving tips which he didn't give.

Charlie McCarthy almost steals the show with a short entitled "The All-American Draw-back."

Another in the recent cycle of educational movies depicting the early days of the west, Gold is Where You Find It uses Technicolor to show that a golden, shimmering field of wheat is sometimes more important than the soft, yellow metal. It sets in beautiful pastel shades the background of the California of 1870, and describes the tensed conflict between farmers and hydraulic power miners. It achieves forceful dramatic effect by contrasting muddy "slickens" let loose by water pressure against the hills, and wheat which becomes submerged in the fields below.

Though Gold is Where You Find It illustrates that the process of Technicolor is now highly developed, it also exemplifies how color can sometimes subordinate story and action. Many times interest is attracted by vividness of the scenes, rather than work of the players. Some indoor shots in particular, seem stilted and artificial, when heavy settings overshadow the slow-moving sequences. However, the film gains momentum in the outdoor scenes which lead to a violent climax.

Acting honours are divided among three stars. Claude Rains is successful as the sincere landowner who leads the battle against the wealthy mine owners, Olivia de Havilland makes a charming and youthful daughter, and George Brent is convincing as the young Yankee mining engineer.

Sh! The Octopus, second feature at the Capitol, mixes together two bright detectives, Hugh Herbert and Allen Jenkins, a half-dozen sinister strangers, a haunted abandoned lighthouse, a mysterious and vital formula for a world-controlling "secret ray," an octopus killer, several unexplainable incidents, and it finally develops into a crazy but entertainingly funny movie.

Literally Speaking

By GLYN OWEN

The significance of Ulysses is probably chiefly a pathological one. He wishes to show how the forcible repression of natural instincts produced by "civilization" causes the accumulation of a great deal of sewage in the mind. Unless these inhibited desires are given some outlet, weak-willed persons succumb to madness, and sex crimes result. In medicine, psycho-analysis endeavours to relieve this condition by permitting the patient to spit out all these thoughts lying dormant in his mind. Joyce's work, therefore, certainly has a meaning; it is "moral" in the highest sense of the word.

Of course, the doubtful part is that we have only Joyce's word for it that what he sets down really exists in the subconscious minds of people. He may reply that much of his work is avowedly autobiographical, but as we have been at pains to point out, he himself is by no means a normal person. He is a sentimental, mystic Irishman, gifted with a vivid imagination, and the vocabulary to make any wild idea of his sound convincingly real. We hope he hasn't been spoofing us.

In his latest book, Work in Progress, of which only parts have been published, he plays with the French poet Mallarme's theory that poetry is written, not with thoughts, but with words. The words should be so arranged as to convey by their sound, not by their sense, a picture and a mood. The result is apparently nonsensical: a punctuationless series of words and phrases in every jargon under the sun, tag-ends of Biblical phraseology and rag-ends of Irish slang, sweepings of the gutter and exquisite poetry; but when the book is read aloud the sound of the words evokes visions of waterfalls, of trees, of the sea.

The ultimate purpose of such writing, which can give pleasure only to those peculiarly sensitive to words, lies with the future. It is pioneer work, and consequently experimental and provisional. In many ways, therefore, Joyce is just a journalist, not an artist. However, he has given a lead to younger authors in Ulysses, and he has given them also a mine of material and a fund of suggestions. His work, therefore, is not to be dismissed as easily as some critics try to dismiss it.

A history professor at the University of Washington had a classful of girls. He nonchalantly dropped the remark that he had better get a prom date if the whole class didn't wish to go under. P.S. He got his date.

MCGILL PRINCIPAL TO ATTEND DINNER

Dr. Lewis W. Douglas Will Be at Second Annual Grads' A.C. Gathering

Dr. Lewis W. Douglas, Principal and Vice-chancellor of McGill University, will attend the second annual dinner of the Graduates Athletic Club of McGill to be held in the ballroom of the McGill Union, Wednesday, March 23 at 6.30 p.m. Several governors of the university will also attend, it was announced last night.

The guest of honor and principal speaker will be Dr. Fred J. Tees, who has been intimately connected with almost every McGill Athletic Club since the war. In honoring Dr. Tees the gathering will pay tribute to one of McGill's outstanding graduates and a man who has performed inestimable services in a medical and advisory capacity to countless numbers of McGill athletes. Affectionately known as "Dad" to a host of McGill team members, Dr. Tees has perhaps devoted more of his valuable time to the administration, of athletic injuries than any other McGill follower and graduates everywhere hold the famous physician in highest respect.

The success of the first annual dinner last year at which the late "Buster" Reid was the guest speaker, has assured another large gathering, and it is expected that the hall will be taxed to capacity. Everyone present last year voted the dinner one of the outstanding affairs in recent McGill history and the enthusiasm engendered has been reflected in the increased graduate interest in all undergraduate clubs. The various intercollegiate championship teams will be present as guests and all clubs will be fully represented.

The demand for tickets is already keen and they may be obtained at the McGill Union or through Jimmy De Lalanne, Bobby Bell, Herb Murphy and George Jost. Since seating accommodation is limited to 300, early purchase of tickets is recommended.

POEM OF THE WEEK

The streets are full of human toys,
Wound up for threescore years;
Their springs are hungers, hopes and joys,
And jealousies and fears.
They move their eyes, their lips,
their hands;
They are marvellously dressed;
And here my body stirs or stands
A playing like the rest.
The toys are played with till they fall,
Worn out and thrown away.
Why were they made at all!
Who sits to watch the play?

McGill Skiers Stand Out in Laurentian Kandahar

Mann and Johannsen In Second and Third Places

HOUGHTON FOURTH
Cochand Wins Quebec Kandahar Trophy—Record Broken

MANN TAKES SLALOM

Louis Cochand, starry skier from the Laurentians, took the Kandahar Trophy on Saturday. In doing this he nosed out McGill's Doug Mann and Bob Johannsen, who placed second and third respectively.

To do this he placed first in the downhill and second in the Slalom. Again Johannsen was right on his heels, as in the downhill he was only three seconds behind him. Owing to hardluck, Bob, only managed to place sixth in the Slalom as he fell on the way down.

MANN SHOWS WELL.
Doug. Mann, as per usual, showed to great advantage when he placed second to Cochand in the standing of the Trophy. He placed first in the Slalom to nose out Cochand. At the time of going to press the times for this event are not available, so we are unable to state the advantage that Mann had over Cochand. In the downhill it was a race between Cochand and Johannsen all the way, as far as the times are concerned, Chevalier who placed third in the downhill was more than thirteen seconds behind Bob. The next McGillite to place was Mann who was in sixth standing. After him came J. Houghton in eighth. Fred Moore was in twelfth, and J. Miller was sixteenth.

The record for Mt. Tremblant was broken by the first twelve skiers who all ran the course under the old time of 3.31 seconds. This was established two years ago, the last time the full course was used. Among these were four McGill men. The results are as follows:

- Downhill.
1—L. Cochand, 3:02.2.
2—Bob Johannsen (McGill), 3:05.4.
3—J. Chevalier, 3:18.4.
4—Punch Bot.
5—R. Trotter.
6—D. Mann (McGill).
7—H. Marcuse.

R.V.C. HISTORICAL CLUB.
The next meeting of the R.V.C. Historical Club will be held Thursday, March 10th, at 768 Sherbrooke Street West, at 8.15 o'clock. The speakers for the evening will be Miss Dorothy McCaig, who will discuss the "History of the Social Credit in Alberta"; and Miss Nancy Griffin, who will deal with the "History of the American Labour Party."

This is an important meeting inasmuch as a slate for next year's executive is to be drawn up. All members are therefore urged to attend.

GLEE CLUB.
The McGill Glee Club will have a rehearsal Monday night at 9.30 p.m. in the King's Hall Bldg., St. Catherine St. at radio station CBM. All members are urgently requested to be there on time.

ATTENTION R.V.C. '38.
The class dinner will be held on Tuesday, March 15 in the Grillroom of the McGill Union. There will be a guest speaker. Tickets are 30c apiece, and may be obtained from the class executives.

FEMALE RED RAIDERS IN SHUTOUT WIN

By "STOOG" GRAVES

CLIMAXING probably one of their most successful seasons in recent years, the R.V.C. hockey squad retained its unbeaten and unscored upon record for this year when they handed a vastly improved, but still inferior, band of Coeds from Macdonald College a 7-0 defeat at the Coliseum Saturday afternoon in the final game of the season.

The McGill girls played four games this season, winning three of them and tying the other; scoring eighteen goals with none tallied against them. Very few teams are able to boast this record, and Coach Paul Pidcock and his board of strategy are extremely proud of their team. The big Redette machine opened the season with a 10-0 victory over Macdonald at St. Annes four weeks ago, were held to a scoreless draw by Bishop's here the next Saturday, defeated the same team 1-0 at Lennoxville the following week-end, and then wound up the season here Saturday with their 7-0 victory.

FIRST LINE STARS.
It was fitting that the winners' first line should score six of the seven goals in their farewell appearance for McGill. Betty Gould, Margaret Jamieson, and Margaret Hart combined to perfection Saturday, with the first named netting three tallies, the second two, and Miss Jamieson won. Phyllis Hall, a Freshette member of this year's team, scored the other goal on a pass from Barbara Lamb.

Besides the Misses Gould, Jamieson, and Hart, graduation will also see the exit of three other valuable players. Betty Murphy, regular goal-tender; Jean Buchanan, and Betty Smith, defence players have finished their active careers with McGill teams, and their places will be hard to fill when next season rolls around.

AWARDS GIVEN.
The efforts of the girls will not be in vain, for each member of the team will receive awards. Those who participated in the series with Bishop's will receive a Senior M crest, while those who played against Macdonald will be awarded a Junior M. The members of Jean Buchanan's team, winners of the Inter-mural championship, will receive a Junior H.

On Saturday the McGill girls jumped a 2-0 lead in the first period, added two more in the second, and then wound up the game and season with a flourish with a three goal scoring orgy in the final two minutes.

Betty Gould and Margaret Jamieson combined for the opening goal about midway through the first period, with the former doing the scoring. Marg Hart made it number two before the period ended when she scored on a passing attack with her linemates. Phyllis Hall's goal on a passout from behind the net by Barbara Lamb, and Miss Gould's second tally brought the number to four before the end of the second. With two minutes to go, the first line clicked to perfection, scoring three goals, one by each member.

MACDONALD IMPROVED.
Macdonald presented a vastly different and stronger team than that of four weeks ago, but their greatest weakness was in their inability to clear the puck away from in front of their net. Miss Owen turned in a steady and non-chalant game for the losers in goal, while at the other end Betty Murphy's main trouble was in keeping warm.

The lineup was as follows: McGill: Goal, Betty Murphy; defence, Jean Buchanan; Peggy Lamb, Ruby Savage and Phyllis Hall; forwards, Betty Gould, Marg Jamieson, Marg Hart, Eleanor Hunter, Barbara Lamb and Eileen Harris. Referee, Allan Perham.

INTERMEDIATE HOOPSTERS BOW TO PLATTSBURG

SANDBERG HIGH SCORER

Scores Seventeen Points to Lead Both Teams

MCGILL'S Intermediate Basketball all but went to town in their annual game with the State Normal School of Plattsburg, N.Y. Twice in the second half only one basket separated them from tying up the score, but each time the teachers came through with another two points to put themselves out of danger.

There were a large number of penalties dealt out during the game, but they were all for unintentional fouls and there were no feuds or such like. The game ended in a great spirit of good sportsmanship. In the dressing rooms afterwards there was talk of a return game, but what with the evil spectre of exams looming so close this probably will be impossible.

PLATTSBURG TAKES LEAD.
The first half of the game was "all American" and when the whistle blew at the end of the initial frame the score was 20-14 for the lads from the south of the line. The chief difference between the two teams was the accurate shooting of the Plattsburgers. Nearly every time they were under the college net they scored. This was especially noticeable in their free throws when they scored 12 out of 18 to the Redmen's 5 out of 13.

The second period saw the McGills tighten up and the game itself was much more interesting to watch. Olson sank two beautiful shots from the middle of the floor, and he also shared the scoring honours of this period with Sandberg, as each of them netted three baskets.

SANDBERG HIGH SCORER.
Plattsburg's passing also had the edge on McGill, and when they swung into one of their predetermined plays, a basket nearly always resulted. The big gun of the game was McGill's Sandberg, who scored eight baskets and one free throw. Olson came next with four baskets and between them they scored 25 of the Red's 30 points.

For the winners the best were Miller, with 14 points, and Latvis, with 9. All together from the spectators' point of view the game was "one of the best." The last scheduled game for the seconds will be with Amici at Montreal High Gym. The game is slated to start at 6.15 p.m. sharp and the team must be on the floor for 6.10 p.m.

Medicine, Dentistry Meet In Faculty Hockey Final

PLAY AT FORUM TODAY

Scott and Norris Lead Meds—Lamb Star of Dents

ENG. 2 MEET MED. 2

FRESH from their victory over the Engineers, the Medicine interfaculty hockey team meets Dentistry in the finals of the league this afternoon at the Forum at 5 p.m. In an interclass semi-final tilt, Eng. II takes on Med. II on Wednesday.

The Sawbones entered the finals by virtue of two wins over the Plumbers, the first having been nullified when some of the players had not been medically examined. In the second game, Scott and Norris led their team to a 4-1 win, scoring to goals apiece, and sink the Plumbers back into the depths of the Engineering building.

LAMB DENT STAR.
Dentistry picked their way into the finals when they eked out a close 3-2 victory over Arts last week. Rolly Lamb, spark-plug of the Extractors' team, scored the two goals that spelt victory.

The game today will probably be refereed by Bill MacDonald and Whiffy Cox, stalwarts of the McGill Intermediate hockey team. The winner of the finals will journey to Ste. Annes to meet the Macdonald team. The Med. line-up will consist of Norris, Cooper, Hunt, Dodds, Lunam, Rogers, Scott, Geggie and MacArthur.

The Dents will have Dinning in goal, Ogilvie and Lamb on the defence, and as forwards, Kalfas, Hannigan, Ward, Dorion, Dohan, Jones, Collins, Estrada, Crossley.

GLEE CLUB.
The Girl's Glee Club are urged to attend the rehearsal at radio station CBM, King's Hall Bldg., St. Catherine St., Monday at (8.00 p.m.).

MCGILL UNIVERSITY. THE PHYSICAL SOCIETY.
The tenth sessional meeting of the Physical Society will be held in the Macdonald Physics Laboratory, Lecture Theatre, on Friday, March 11th, 1938, at 5.00 p.m. Speaker: Dr. Wm. Rowles. Subject: The Physics of Curling. All those interested are invited to attend. C.A. HORTON, Secretary.

The seniors have one more game also. This is the Dods Cup game at the Community Hall on Wednesday evening at 8.00 o'clock. Following are the scores of the McGill-Plattsburg game: McGill: Kalfas 2; Orr 0; Sandberg 17; Olson 8; Russell 3; Reynolds 0. Plattsburg: Melius 8; Macy 1; Latvis 9; Miller 14; Lucksick 0; Curtin 3; Rowley 3; Rushford 3.

University's duty to assume responsibility for the physical education and athletic welfare of the students, and that this burden should be lifted from the students as soon as it is financially possible.

(2) Excursions, Rallies, Park Slide Nights. It is only through the promotion of these activities that students who are unable to compete actively in sports may participate in the athletic life of the University. These must continue to be an integral part of our athletic program.

(3) Intra-mural Sports. Last year the intra-mural program was augmented by the addition of softball to the Fall Schedule. Too much attention cannot be given to the organization and proper supervision of an extensive schedule including tennis, track, baseball, hockey, basketball, swimming, etc.

At some colleges inter-faculty sport is the most important part of the Athletic Programme. Much more emphasis should be placed on it here, and, if properly organized, it could be used as a stepping-stone to intercollegiate teams.

(4) Skiing. Skiing was not included in the above because of its importance. It is only in the last few years that it has received proper recognition at McGill. Inter-faculty competitions in this sport should be further extended. Efforts should be made to obtain ski instructors who will be available to all.

(5) Gymnasium. Anyone who has considered this problem knows that the greatest stumbling-block in our athletic administration is the lack of adequate athletic facilities. We all realize that enthusiasm alone cannot build a gymnasium. But student opinion, properly expressed, will certainly do much to impress upon the responsible parties the fact that the need for a gym is becoming more and more acute every year.

Thus, I have outlined a few of the major problems that I think should be considered next year, and, if elected, I shall use my energy and what experience I have had to see that they receive due attention.

who was not a member of the Council be asked to undertake the management of this project. This was done and his programme and efforts have fully justified this appointment. A further step in the extension of Council responsibility was taken when the Council adopted the Social Activities Committee's report.

I would therefore advocate, at the discretion of the Council, the extension of responsibility to individuals and groups within the student body as I believe it would increase the Productive Power of the Council.

(7) Mid-Term Examinations. It would be a very sound idea to hold the mid-term examinations before the Christmas holidays. This would eliminate pre-exam. worries during the holidays; enable those who had no exams. to go home a week earlier, and tend to give a greater continuity to activities during the second term. I am indebted to a Daily editorial for this clause which I am taking the liberty of including in my platform.

I believe the Student's Council should co-operate with the staff and interested students in bringing about this and similar improvements in the arrangement of courses.

(8) Financial Campaigns. I believe that the student body should not be subjected to indiscriminate financial canvassing.

(9) Recent Campus Issues. My stand on the two major issues that have been brought up on the Campus this year, and still is: S.C.M. Strathcona Hall gives certain material advantages to McGill students; (a) it provides a place of residence for out-of-town students; (b) it operates the Pit and (c) it offers accommodation to various student clubs and societies. For these services to the student body I believe they should be allowed a private financial canvass amongst their supporters.

Freedom of Speech. I believe that freedom of speech should be upheld in the University. My recent motion, presented at the Student's Society meeting on February 21st, advocated obtaining this end through an appeal by the Council to Quebec and Ottawa, and by action on the part of the University authorities.

STUDENTS' ATHLETIC COUNCIL.

(1) I would strongly recommend to the above Council and to the Athletic Board that a greater emphasis be placed on inter-faculty athletics. At the present time the whole set-up is Slip-Shod. The faculty athletic managers are working under great handicaps. Therefore, as this is the only means whereby the majority of students can indulge in competitive sports and physical exercise, more adequate planning and supervision of inter-faculty athletic schedules must be undertaken.

(2) Gymnasium. I believe that the need for a Gymnasium should again be brought before the Governors of the University.

(3) Molson Stadium.

I believe that any construction programme undertaken by the Athletics Board should consider an improvement in the seating facilities for students. The seating capacity should be enlarged and made less exposed.

Thus briefly I have endeavoured to give a few ideas on how to extend student administration and increase the productive power of the Council. If I am elected I shall carry out the wishes of the Student's Council in a democratic manner.

I wish to thank the Daily for the privilege of presenting this platform to the students.

there. Interminable delay can be caused by appeals to the Privy Council, during which time the edict remains in force as an instrument to stifle the voices of those who would fight it. In that eventuality, we would have the anomaly of the Students' Society obeying an illegal injunction, while the decision of the highest court in the land was being hamstrung.

It is clear, then, that the fight on the Padlock Ukase must go on unabated. That is one way in which the students can show that their last meeting was not merely so much sound and fury. While the legal steps are being taken, as I trust they are, to have this edict voided, the issue must be kept in the foreground constantly.

The cry must be in the spirit of Cato's: "The Padlock Ukase must go!" Make it a daily editorial caption to vie with the Star's gem "A Nation's Health, etc." Say it in your prayers, shout it from the rooftops, sing it and swing it, write it and read it, and perhaps eventually they will get the idea in Quebec. Judging from the temper of the Alberta decisions, there is little doubt that the Supreme Court will eventually invalidate the Padlock Ukase as it this past Friday invalidated the Alberta Press Gag Law. That will be the first important step in the campaign for restoring democracy to its rightful place in our province.

organization of the Dominion. They have a tendency to nullify the political rights of the inhabitants of Alberta, as citizens of Canada, and cannot be considered as dealing with matters purely private and local in that province.

"The Federal Parliament is the sole authority to curtail, if deemed expedient and in the public interest, the freedom of the press and the equal rights in that respect of all citizens throughout the Dominion. These subjects were matters of criminal law before Confederation, have been recognized by Parliament as criminal matters and have been expressly dealt with by the Criminal Code.

"No province has the power to reduce in that province the political rights of its citizens as compared with those enjoyed by the citizens of other provinces of Canada.

"Moreover, citizens outside the Province of Alberta have a vital interest in having full information and comment, favorable and unfavorable, regarding the policy of the Alberta Government and concerning rights in that province which would, in the ordinary course, be the subject of Alberta newspapers' news items and articles."

NICKEL ALLOYS
KEEP INDUSTRY HUMMING...MEN AT WORK..
PRODUCTION AT ITS PEAK

EZRA HAWKINS, timekeeper, was an important official on occasions. When the machinery broke down, it was his job to advise the men that there would be no work—and no wages—for a few hours, a few days, maybe a few weeks.

Breakdowns can't be accepted in that casual fashion in today's era of high-speed production. Manufacturers and mill owners have learned to specify Nickel Alloys for parts which habitually broke, wore out, or were eaten by rust or corrosion.

And Nickel Alloys do cut down replacement costs and keep factories operating. In one rock quarry, Nickel Steel crusher shafts last six or seven years as compared with one year for carbon steel shafts. Equipment made of "Ni-Hard" Nickel Cast Iron has lasted five to twelve times as long as plain chilled iron in heavy abrasive service. Ventilators made of "Monel" have given service in sulphuric acid fumes for eighteen years.

As the demand for Nickel in many industries continues to grow, Canada will benefit accordingly. More men will be put to work mining and refining Canadian Nickel, and many millions will be spent for supplies from all parts of Canada. More Nickel Alloys used by world industry will mean greater prosperity for Canadians.
